No News at Birdville.

When Mr. Read was a newspaper reporter he covered Birdville, Ark., for his paper by interviewing citizens from that village and its vicinity, says the Portland Oregonian. One day he met old "Bill" Simmons, who resided near Birdville, and ask him if there were any news in the neighborhood. "Nope," everything quiet as death, replied "Bill."

"No weddings, or anything of the social sort?" asked Opie. "Wall, no," said "Bill" "the" would 'a' be'n marryin' over at Sim Smith's place las' night, 'ceptin' that Si Jones wuz plumb gone on Sim's darter, which Hank Thompson wuz gwine ter marry, an' jess afore the hitchin'-up wuz to take place Hank met up with Si on the Yellville turnpike an' shot his right arm off, an' then Si tuck his gun in his left hand an' dropped Hank to the ground, an' jess then old man Thompson, Hank's paw, came up an' plunked three bullets inter Si, an' Si's step-uncle, Jim Rivers, come a-lopin down the creek bottom and shot old man Thompson's head clean orf his shoulders afore he could say 'Jack Robinson.' 'Course that spiled the weddin' plans, an, so I hain't got no nooze fer yer terday."

"Wait a minute, Mr. Simmons," urged Opie, who wanted to get the story in detail.

"I can't wait," replied the man from Birdville, where it was quiet as death. "I got ter go over to the undertaker's shop an' order three coffins right orf. I'll let ye know when the's any nooze down Birdville way."

"Were you ever in all your life glum and discontented?" asked one, says the New York Times.

"Yes; once I was plumb down in the mouth," owned Uncle Henry, with an air of candor. "But I got cured right off, and I ain't ever had an attack of the blues since then."

"Do tell us about it."

"Well it was when I was a young man, I had just got a job workin' on the Erie canal, it was gettin' late in the fall, and I hadn't any shoes to my name, and I had to send home every red cent, except what would feed me. I didn't see how I was to get a pair of shoes before winter set in."

"Well that was hard lines."

"So I thought," said Uncle Henry, smiling, "until one day I saw a feller on the street that hadn't no feet. I can't rightly say as I've ever been discontented since then."

It is said that President Roosevelt hopes to have as much "influence" with the Senate as he had with Russia and Japan in the peace settlement. We fear he does not know the Senate yet.

France is trying to pick a quarrel with Morocco. It is thought that France could probably "lick" Morocco.

Very Embarrassing.

A young newspaper man at West-mourland was recently invited to a residence where the home had recently been blessed with an addition to the family. Accompanied by his best girl, he met his kind hostess at the door, and after the customary salutations, asked about the welfare of the baby. The lady was suffering from a severe cold, which made her slightly deaf, and she supposed the young man was inquiring about her cold. She replied that though she usually had one every winter, this was the worse she had ever had; it had kept her awake at night a great deal at first, and confined her to bed. Then noticing that the scribe was becoming pale and nervous, she said she could tell by his looks that he was going to have one just like hers.—Kansas City Journal.

The Boy Reared By Hand.

An old farmer in Nemaha county remarks that a home grown, hand spanked bare footed and hard fisted country boy makes a much better fighter in the battles of life than does the pampered, high collared, creased trousered youth of our town and cities whose clothes have always been dusted with a whisk broom instead of a shingle.

An editor of Ohio, who began some seventeen years ago with $25, is now supposed to be worth $100,000. He accumulated wealth very rapidly owing to his strict attention to business and the fact that his father died a few months ago and left him $99,87.—Decatur (Ind.) Democrat.

New Orleans has had about 300 deaths from yellow fever out of about 8,000 cases. There is no danger of the city becoming depopulated at this rate, unless the rest of 'em are scared to death.

SHAYLOR REBUKES JURY.

Mother Who Fought for Reputation of Daughter Fined $1.00 and Costs.

Mrs. Ruth Freeman, convicted of aggravated assault in connection with the tragedy which occurred in the office of Justice Farris, where she had gone in the interest of securing justice from the betrayer of her daughter, Miss May Brown, was fined by Judge Shaylor Monday $1 and costs, the lightest sentence ever assessed against any one convicted of a like offense in the criminal court of Duval county.

The light sentence was in the nature of a rebuke for the jury which brought in the verdict, as well as those who were instrumental in securing the verdict against the mother who fought for the character of her daughter. The sentence imposed by Judge Shaylor met with the most universal approval of the people of Jacksonville.

Previous to this sentence being imposed the motion for a new trial was denied. There was but little other business, and the court adjourned for the term.—Times-Union.

Tom Lawson having driven the "Lamb" from wall street is now trying to "bag them hisself." Tom is trying to squeeze ten millions out of them in his copper "pool" and thoughtfully tells every subscriber, to expect to lose every cent he puts in. We cannot, however, but admire his frankness, for it is not everybody who will tell the little lamb when he is going to get "his curls trimmed."

The Czar is said to be trying to secure the services of one Teddy Roosevelt to act as peacemaker for him and his subjects in their little domestic quarrel. He might do a great deal worse, for Ted is "great" on doing things, and "doing people," too, when he gets started.

Young Rockefeller is going abroad this winter and will come back in the spring to help John D. give his "dough" away. We would suggest that his first step be to reimburse those whom he has robbed, and the question of giving away the "remainder" will be comparatively easy.

The Secretary of State for Mississippi called Governor Jeff Davis, of Arkansas, a "liar." As there were no "chair legs" handy the impudent secretary was permitted to go unpunished. Gov. Jeff never uses anything but "chair legs" to bust a skull.

No "anxious inquirer," the last fighting is not over yet and will not be until the future historians determine whether "Togo" wiped the sea up with Rojestevsky, or whether it was merely a captain's battle, as was once remarked in these parts.

"Uncle Joe" has admitted that President Roosevelt is now in the lime-light, but with a merry twinkle in his eye, says "just wait until he 'hits the gavel' in the speaker's chair in the House of Representatives in a month or two."

As soon as the impudent Chinese boycotters of Canton, China, saw Secretary Taft, they began to apologize, etc. It is calculated to make anybody promise to "be good" to take a glimpse of a 300-lb. Secretary of War.

The Czar is trying to raise another $100,000,000 from home subscriptions. We are not quite certain whether he is trying to get it before the revolutionists do, or whether he thinks, "it is a good thing" to have a little extra change "lying around loose."

Says the Florida Times-Union: "Women alone have the faculty of talking mechanically and thinking of something else." Our esteemed contemporary must never have seen the House of Representatives in action in Washington.

Indian Territory insists in coming into the Union with the name of "Sevuyah" which is another reason for being admitted singly, as that name is not acceptable to Oklahoma.

People consider Elihu Root such a great man, that some of them expected him to bring the north pole back under his arm, when he returned from the far north.

CHARGED WITH MURDER

Men Accused Lodged in DeSoto County Jail.

BLOODY AFFRAY ON A LAUNCH

Anderson Jones and Staten Believed to Have Killed Theodore Scott—Body Not Found.

Capt. Harvey's gasoline launch, Marina, in charge of Theodore Scott as engineer and carrying as passengers, Staten Johnson of Fort Myers and Anderson Jones, of Floral City, left here yesterday morning with the United States mail for Boca Grande and other points below.

About 5 p. m., she returned here with Scott missing. Johnson and Jones who brought her back, reported that when they were near Cape Hays light, Scott, who was sitting on the stern bailing out water, fell overboard and before they could bring the boat about, he was drowned. They said they knew nothing about managing the boat and had much trouble with it, they drifted on to Crow Key, where they found some fisherman, of whom they asked help to bring the boat back. They got into a fight with these fishermen and Jones got his shirt bloody.

Then they returned to the boat and, after much trouble, they succeeded in bringing the boat here. On arriving Jones sent his companion up to town for a clean shirt, which he put on, after stowing his bloody shirt in a nook of the boat.

On searching the boat, Town Marshal Johns and Night Officer Carlton found this bloody shirt, which aroused their suspicion, and, accordingly, they arrested Johnson and Jones and notified Sheriff Freeman.

Deputy Sheriff Bassett came down last night and took the two men to Arcadia jail this morning.

Jones says he will have no difficulty in proving by the Crow Key fishermen that they blooded his shirt.

Meantime, Scott's body has not been recovered. All three of the men are under twenty-four years old and unmarried.

At the time of the alleged accident all were more or less under the influence of liquor.—Punta Gorda Herald.

This, no doubt, will prove a dastardly crime. A reporter of The News heard the brother of the murdered man say that Johnson and Jones story is not at all alike, and the supposition is that the two men wanted to catch another boat and the Marina, being a mail boat, had no time to lose and they undertook to force Scott, and not being able to do it evidently murdered him.

Sam Roberts, the fisherman that Jones says he had the fight with, states that he had no trouble with either of the men.

Jones says the fight was thirty feet out on shore from the boat, and there was a pool of blood in the boat and the mail sacks were also stained with blood.
